HORSE SHOW IN FULL SWING.

SOCIETY BRAVES UNPLEASANT WEATHER TO ATTEND.

A. G. and R. C. Vanderbilt Take Blue and Red Ribbons in Brougham Horse Class -Almost a Sweep for Eben D. Jordan's Hackneys-Blues for Mrs. Gerken.

More disagreeable weather served to keep the attendance down at the Horse Show in Madison Square Garden last night. The crowd was not so large as the gathering promenade, creating much consternation among the dress suit brigade, when they were suddenly intercepted by a broad-shouldered detective in street dethes, who asked them what they were doing.

"We're intoxicated, old fellow!" drawled the tallest one, "and we're out for sport, doncherknow!"

"Well, you'll find plenty of sport in the park outside!" replied the sleuth who proceeded to drag the trio into the street. This was the only act of disorder during the evening, but it served to shock society to an intense degree, for no such incident had ever been seen at the horse show be-.. At the Fourth avenue entrance, through which the horses go and come, there was a motley crowd of men interested in the show. Coachmen, footmen, grooms, host-lers and servants of all kinds gathered early in the afternoon and talked incessantly. They only moved when the gates of the ring were opened to admit a new class, and then they closed up against the railing, peering through with eager faces for the result. The decisions of the judges were received vociferously by these enthusiant and catcalls, while others gave vent to wild yells of approval. vells of approval.

"The master was robbed of the blue ribboa!" ejeculated a coachman who was clad from head to foot in rubber.

"He should have got the gate long ago!" retorted a groom at the coachman's elbow.

And there was an instant growling bee, which only stopped when another blue ribbon was swarded.

ribbon was awarded.

"I wonder if that is the Vanderoilt box?"
queried a short, fat woman who wore eye glasses on the tip of her nose and carried a programme in which there was a list of the boyledder. the boxholders.

""" replied a tall, thin woman who was at her side, "but I do wish you'd find Mrs. So-and-So! I hear she has a magnificent tiara!"

"Oh, I say her" remarked the fat woman, "and she hasn't got a tiara at all. It's a newspaper lie."

and she hasht got a thara at all. It's a newspaper lie."

Some of the people who do not come within the tands of the Four Hundred but who do not dislike notoriety, had press agents at work yesterday who were armed with photographs and elaborate descriptions of dresses and jewels, but as there was not much of a demand for such things the agents were somewhat crestfallen. Real society people have the call.

THE JUDGES' WORK HARD. Many Hackneys Pass in Review-Fine

Points of the Winners. fringe of spectators around the ring and a sprinkling in the seats made the spacious building look lonely when the first class entered the ring. It was a qualifying class for hunters, and those selected were to entertain the crowd during the closing hour of the programme for the day. Preliminary classes at best have but little attraction except to those having an interest in the results.

It was a pleasant contrast when two high bred young hackneys walked into the ring in answer to the call for Class 31. It was for mares two years old, height not to be considered. Eben D. Jordan of Boston sent in Mia Cara by Lord Denby II., and W. E. Woodend was represented by Solitaire B., daughter of Danegelt. It did not need a judge to decide the winner. Woodend's entry is simply a wonder. Her action, round and full, has rarely been equalled and never excelled by any winner who has ever trod the tanbark of this ring, where so many champions have won high three years old and under 15.1 hands. Only wo exhibitors responded to the call, and his time Eben D. Jordan was an easy winner with Gitana, a chestnut, who stepped around the ring with almost perfect road action and seemed able to trot a threeminute gait. Imogene, a substantial chestnut, with high knee action but not much speed, sent in by Irvinton Stock Farm, received the red.

Class 30 was also for hackney mares

Class 28, for mares four years old or over, standing over 14.2 hands and not above 15.1, also went to Mr. Jordan. Viscountess, a splendid chestnut, 15.0%, quite outclassed her rival, Sunshine, a shapely chestnut with white ankles, sent in by Irvinton Stock and Brown Thunder and his former winners Confidence and Perfection.

Nine of the sixteen nominated came into the ring to contest for the ribbons in Class 45, for brougham horses. The conditions stated horse would count 50 per cent, harness 15 and liverles 10. A. G. and R. C. Vanderbit had three high class entries, White Oak Maid, a winner on Monday, Astonishment, another winner, and Volunteer, a grand big fellow 16.1 hands, with substance enough to handle a coach if called upon. William H. Moore was represented by his winner Peckwald. Jay F. Carlisle sent in his winner of last year, the grand chestnut, Underwriter. D. G. Reid sent the high class Captain Barr. It took a long time for the judges to select the four winners and to place them in the order. The final result was the blue knot to White Oak Maid, with the H. C. to Astonishment. This was a double victory for the Vanderbilt family. Underwriter was awarded the red and Captain Barr the yellow.

Nineteen shapely little horses answered the call for Class 78, to be shown under saddle and not to exceed 14.2 hands in size. Three of the exhibitors were women who rode their own pressult of the fore the property of the least prize sin classes 21, 22, 23, 4, 23 and to taking first prizes in classes 21, 22, 23, 4, 23 and to stallion in the show; open to all stallions taking first prizes in classes 21, 22, 23, 4, 23 and to stallion in the show; open to all stallions taking first prizes in classes 21, 22, 23, 4, 23 and to stallion in the show; open to all stallions taking first prizes in classes 21, 22, 23, 4, 23 and to stallion in the show; open to all stallions first prizes in classes 21, 22, 23, 4, 23 and to stallions having taken a first prize in classes 21, 22, 23, 4, 23 and 30 the miner of the winner. saddle and not to exceed 14.7 hands in size. Three of the exhibitors were women who rode their own entry. It was not gallantry alone that prompted an outburst of enthusiasm when the handsome mare Paula, with Miss Vera Bloodgood in the saddle, sitting her mount to perfection, stepped over the tanbark. Mrs. John Gerken on the the tanbark. Mrs. John Gerken on the bay mare imp. Towthorpe Queen was much admired. The judges evidently agreed with the gallant public, and the fair sex carried away all but one of the silk knots. Miss Bloodgood won the blue with Paula. W. E. Woodend's The Master, with a graceful woman rider in the saddle, won the red ful woman rider in the saddle, won the red. Mrs. Gerken got the yellow for her imported mare, and the H. C. went to Spokanetta, sent in by Edwin H. Weatherbe.

The Garden was well filled when the jumpers came in for Class 92. Performances over the sticks are always popular, and the hour slipped away quickly while the horses were clearing the green fringe five feet above the tanbark. It was a difficult task to sift the sixteen splendid exhibits down to the four ribbon winners, and when it had been done. Jouac King, who had been the evident choice of the crowd at the ring-side, wore the blue knot, F. Ambrose Clark's side, wore the blue knot, F. Ambrose Clark's Sentry won the red, and Coquette, a shapely bay, from Crow & Murray, the yellow; Othello, William Littauer's 16-hand brown, only earned the H. C.

Five splendidly appointed four-in-hand teams answered the call for Class 56, and if one may judge from the generous applause accorded each in turn by the spectators, the judges had no sinecure in placing four in the order of winning and sending the other from the ring. William H. Moore carried away the blue knot with four browns skilfully driven. C. A. Baudoinne captured the red for D. G. Reid, and C. A. Fownes won the yellow for W. E. C. A. Fownes won the yellow for W. E. Woodend. Dr. John L. Wentz won the

H. C.

Another lot of shapely saddle cobs answered the bugle call for Class 72. The conditions called for size from 14.1 to 14.3 hands and up to carrying not less than 180 pounds. Of the nine entries only two were absent. Judge Vivian Gooch mounted several while determining the order of the winners and finally awarded the blue to R. W. Rivee's dun gelding Shorty. Edwin H. Weatherbee's Queen Elizabeth won the red and Pretty, a chestnut sent in by Central Park Riding Academy, the yellow. Spokanetta, a winner earlier in the day, received the H. C.

ceived the H. C.

Ten ponies scampered through the gates in answer to the bugle call for Class 62. The conditions called for ponies under 12 hands and the Shetlands were excluded. Of course there was plenty of applause. The miniature horses always catch the fancy of the spectators. Mrs. John Gerken, behind Doncaster Model, her winner of last year, received a hearty welcome when she made the circle of the tan bark. The judges considered him the best in the lot and pinned the blue rosette to his bridle. Spider, a bay sent in by Miss Lorena Carroll, took the red. Bay Boy, shown by T. L. Watt, won the yellow and the H. C. went to Irvinton Tony from Irvinton Farm.

Class 39, open to dealers only, was for horses not under 14.3 hands nor over 15.2, to be shown in harness to an appropriate vehicle. It proved a grand exhibit, for every prominent dealer in the greater city had sent the best from his stables. The entry list was too large and the average quality too high for any attempt to particularize. When the unwieldy field had been sifted down to the ribbon winners the blue knot was fastened to the bridle of Albert De Cernea & Show Girl. The red went to Strauss & Hexter for the bay gelding Animation. Conqueror, a splendid brown sent in by M. F. McDonald, got the yellow, and honorably commended went to Salute, from the stable of Lehman Straus. Class 67, for saddle horses, was the opening event for the evening session. and a brown hat with red roses. The Baroness Hengelmuller wore a costume of pale gray velvet and a large white hat. The grooms who harness the horse before they are sent into the ring are particular to the minutest detail and not a strap or buckle is misplaced. Such an error would probably cause the exhibit to get the "gate," particularly in the appoint ment classes. It would seem, to judge by the exhibition in the boxes and on the board walk, that the representatives of wealth and fashion are just as particular about the arrangement of their costumes, and the men and women vie with the horses in appointments. There are many seen at the Garden who are perfectly at home in swell costumes, but there are those who have put on a smart looking gown which has been built just for the show, and they adjustife the fact on they walk present the fact of the present the fact of the fact of the present the fact of the fact of they walk present the fact of the fact o

The skirt is short and the material used is very similar to that used in a man's business suit. Furs are worn with these costumes, and the richer the better. It makes no difference to the woman of fashion if the weather is rather warm to put on her furs. She has the furs rather to be seen than for comfort. Sables, squirrel, silver fox and lynx are the popular furs. The hats worn are, like the costumes, severe in style and perfectly plain. In the severe in style and perfectly plain. TYPHOID AT WILLIAMS?

firmary With a Fever. WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 17 .- A Mrs. Onver Harriman wore a costume of black lace over white silk, an ostrich feather boa, and a picture hat.

Mrs. Lanfear Norrie wore a dress of white lace with appliqué of black and a white hat with shaded red plumes.

Mrs. Howard Gould wore a gown of propagad white lace with pulk forward and which in some ways resembles typhoid fever exists among the Williams college students, and ten men are already prostrated with it. The physicians at first seemed to think that it was a form of grip, but they now say that it is a form of fever, although they will not admit it is typhoid. The infirmary is filled with sick students. The temperature of the sick men ranges from 103 to 104. It is lower in the morning, but when night comes on begins to rise. It is believed that the disease may have come from impure milk.

"Plum Duff," the Pickpocket, Under Arrest. PITTBBURG, Nov. 17 .- A man who was breaking into the notion store of Ferguson & Ferguson, in Chatham street, was identified to-day by Detective James W. Eagan as Frank Jones, better known in criminal circles as "Plum Duff." The prisoner is said to be one of the most notorious pickpockets in the country and made New York

Mrs. Davidow Wins.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich decided yesterday that Mrs. Frances Davidow was entitled to a separation from her husband, Edward B. Davidow, a Harlem jeweller. Davidow, in answering her com-plaint, alleges that she voluntarily aban-doned him and that he was willing to take her back and make a home for her. Justice Giegerich says that the evidence shows that Davidow abandoned her and that his offer to take her back was not made in good
